BIOGRAPHY

Jasmine B. Simmons is a member of the firm's Litigation practice group, where she focuses her practice on handling various complex litigation matters on behalf of public and private sector clients in both the Federal and State courts of New Jersey and New York. Ms. Simmons also has experience handling matters relating to Labor & Employment, Business Torts, and Criminal Defense.

Prior to joining the firm, Ms. Simmons served as a law clerk to the Hon. Verna Leath, J.S.C., of the New Jersey Superior Court, Essex Vicinage. During her time there, Ms. Simmons mediated civil cases and supported the Court on a variety of key matters.

Ms. Simmons earned her Juris Doctor from Rutgers Law School in Newark, NJ. While in law school, Ms. Simmons served as an Editor of the Rutgers Computer & Technology Law Journal. She also worked as a clinical law student as part of Rutgers' Criminal and Youth Justice Clinic, where she handled a wide variety of matters relating to the criminal and juvenile justice systems. Ms. Simmons also played an integral role in developing a commission to redistrict Ohio's congressional districts through her research on gerrymandering reform through the Ohio Common Clause Research Project. Additionally, Ms. Simmons provided pro bono legal services to clients through the Rutgers Honorable Morris Stern Bankruptcy Assistance Project.

Ms. Simmons earned her undergraduate degree, cum laude, from Marist College in Poughkeepsie, NY, where she majored in Criminal Justice and was a member of the Alpha Phi Sigma National Criminal Justice Honor Society.
